Press Release

We regret to inform you that Chelsea Art Museum's Chief Curator, Manon Slome, resigned this week for personal reasons. Upon resigning, she unilaterally decided to cancel the exhibition The Dialectics of Terror (formerly The Aesthetics of Terror) and informed all the participating artists without prior discussion with Dorothea Keeser, Chelsea Art Museum's Founder and President, or any Museum personnel.

Manon Slome and Dorothea Keeser had jointly approved the exhibition catalogue proof, which was at the printer.

We regret that these events have left the artists in the exhibition in an undesirable situation.

In an effort to move forward, Chelsea Art Museum has begun reviewing applications to fill the position of Chief Curator. Furthermore, plans are being made to advance the opening date of a previously planned exhibition, in order to fill the gap in the exhibition calendar.
